- David Hayes says thank you on behalf of the Friends of Yeatman Hospital

In an appropriate socially distanced setting, David Hayes, Chairman of the Friends of the Yeatman Hospital, presented Anne Hiscocks, former matron of the Hospital, with a gift of appreciation on behalf of the Trustees and Friends of the Yeatman Hospital. Mrs Hiscocks was Matron at the Yeatman for 7 years prior to her promotion to be the “Freedom to Speak Up” Guardian, the Safe Staffing Lead for Dorset Healthcare Trust, early this year. In his thanks Mr Hayes said:

“Since the emergence of Covid-19 the NHS has been able to respond to the Nation’s need as it is blessed with dedicated and professional Staff. It has taken its place in our Nation’s soul as an organisation deserving of our praise and high gratitude.

“The NHS has however operated similarly on a more routine basis since its inception. It has only been able to do so while supported by members of its Staff such as Matron Anne who has shown the steadfast and dedicated professional and emotional commitment to the service since her early days through to her appointment as Matron of the Yeatman.

“She has been an exemplary in her role while her compassion and devotion to her hospital has made it a true and very genuine pleasure for the Friends of Yeatman Hospital to work alongside her. She departs to her next challenging appointment with our high praise admiration and deep affection. “
